

if you lose him, you
may never get over it because some risks are not worth taking – choose Armormax.

If tragedy struck and you were to lose one of your executives, the emotional cost would be incalculable. But the financial cost may be up to 5 times their annual salary.

Armormax can eliminate an all too common cause of such losses by creating an impenetrable barrier between your personnel and would-be attackers.

Utilizing the latest in lightweight armouring technology, your luxury vehicle will be able to withstand a level B4 threat (shots fired from a .44 Magnum at point blank range) when protected with Armormax. In addition neither your car's physical appearance nor the handling will be affected.

The choice is simple really - expose your executives and your company, or bullet proof both with Armormax.
